

PRISONERS CAN BE LOCATED WHEN CITY COURT OPENS

Mysterious Disappearance Flusters Police But Later It's All Right.

Ed. Chabot, Valencia, aged 28, of 24 Westmoreland, and John Lencastre, aged 25, of 130 Clarence street, disappeared from police headquarters or were they released from custody? This question agitated many this morning, owing to the conflicting stories.

Chabot and Lencastre went to the railroad station last night and carried away a trunk bearing the name of Ramon Filipa. They requested the security of providing a baggage check. When the baggage master became aware of it, he set out in pursuit and they were arrested later on his complaint.

The two men were taken to the one and a half station and later transferred to police headquarters. When the case was coming in, Mrs. Lencastre, the wife of the prisoner, came to the station and said she would be found. They weren't in any of the cells and in the prisoners' pen. The trunk also was missing.

At first, the conclusion that the men had disappeared. Later, in explaining the matter, detectives asserted that they had recovered their freedom, because they proved their own identity. When the release occurred, and by whom it was done was made clear, and slight mystery still hangs about the matter.

JACKSON APPEALS FROM CITY COURT'S NON-SUPPORT RULING

George W. Jackson, a traveling man who was charged in the city court with non-support of his wife, Mrs. Lella Jackson, who formerly lived at 600 Atlantic street. The case attracted much attention owing to the fact that Jackson alleged her husband was the possessor of a large fortune and had on several occasions maltreated her. A denial of these statements was entered by attorney L. A. Brown, who represented Jackson.

The court ruled that sufficient evidence had not been introduced by the defendant to show that he did support his wife, though an attempt had been made to show that he had on several occasions offered to provide lodgings for her. The court in ordering the defendant to pay $10 per week under bonds of $500 or to leave the city, the judge said: "In Connecticut women are not chattels and must not be treated as such." Intimating that homes must be provided for women, even when they are separated from their husbands.

An appeal from the decision was taken.

Summary OF THE War News

A report is published by a Prussian newspaper that Grand Duke Nicholas, Russian commander-in-chief, has been shot in the abdomen by General Baron Stever, commander of the Russian 10th army, which was defeated and driven from East Prussia last February. The General is said to have committed suicide. There is no confirmation of this report, official or otherwise.

The official German statement of today evidently referring to yesterday's raid over England by a German aeroplane says shells were dropped in Greenwich, in the metropolitan district of London. Despatches yesterday said an aeroplane approached no nearer than 20 miles from London.

The French minister of marine announces further naval operations against the Turkish forces which proceeded against Egypt. It stated a French battleship shelled a Turkish position near the Egyptian city of El-Arish which is close to the border of Palestine.

Such scattering reports as are permitted from the eastern front it is becoming apparent gradually that the greatest battle of the war—at least so far as concerns the numbers of men engaged—being fought in the Carpathians, along the 115 mile front from Bartfeld, in Northern Hungary, to Stry, in eastern Galicia. This line, roughly, parallels the boundary between Hungary and Galicia, running through a difficult mountain region through which the Russians hope to break a way into the heart of Hungary.

German war correspondents style this battle the greatest in the history of the world and it is estimated that 3,500,000 men are taking part. According to German reports, the Russian advance, which a week ago seemed to be threatening the integrity of Hungary, has now been checked definitely. It is said that the Russian losses in killed, wounded, sick and prisoners are 500,000.

Russian reports throw little light on the situation. English is exposing another raid by German airships following the three attacks in rapid succession. The German aerial attack yesterday on Amiens, France, resulted in the killing of seven persons and wounding of eight.

Official VIEWS OF World's War GERMAN

Berlin, April 17.—The statement today from army headquarters is as follows:

"French attacks near Pilre were repulsed.

"East of Tyres the British yesterday used grenades and bombs which developed an asphyxiating gas.

"On the south slope of Lorette Heights, northwest of Arras, a small German point of support sixty yards long and 50 yards deep was lost.

"In Champagne, northwest of Perthes, a group of French fortifications was stormed. A French counter attack failed.

"The Germans conquered a French position northwest of Etichy in the Vosges. They captured French chas-seurs and then evacuated the position because of its disadvantageous situation.

"A French airship destroyed window glass at Strassburg and wounded civilians. A German aviator shelled Greenwich, near London.

"On the eastern front the situation is unchanged."

Southport Physician First Loses Car And Then Bag Is Stolen

Dr. Charles E. Hyde, of Southport, has been a victim of thieves. While attending a meeting at Masonic temple last night his bag containing a set of instruments, valued at between $40 and $50 was stolen and after the instruments had been taken the bag was abandoned in the alleyway behind the Arcade hotel. It was about two weeks ago that Dr. Hyde lost his automobile in a similar manner. This was later found abandoned at Darien.

RAID EX-MINISTER'S HOME IN SEARCH OF A "STILL"

Knoxville, Tenn., April 17.—Isaac Whaley, aged sixty-seven and formerly a Baptist minister, is awaiting trial on a charge of operating a "still" in the basement of his home, just beyond the corporation limits of Knoxville. United States Marshal John R. Thompson raided Whaley's home. Whaley said he had a plant in the basement where he made herb medicines. The officers found, they say, that this herb plant was a sixty-gallon "still" outfit built into the chimney.

Six hundred gallons of beer, the raiders declared, was found in the basement with quantity of corn and wood, and in another room six gallons of corn whiskey was found. The outfit was destroyed.

THAW'S MOTHER YET HOPEFUL THAT HE WILL BE FREED

Boston, April 17.—Harry K. Thaw not only expects a jury test of his sanity but has strong hopes that the attorney-general's office will join with his counsel in supporting the motion to this end when it comes up for argument in the Supreme court at New York on Monday.

Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copely Thaw, who was here to-day says: "We are not discouraged by yesterday's decision of the appellate division of the Supreme court, refusing Harry an opportunity to return to New Hampshire. On the contrary I am satisfied with the progress made thus far and believe that the end of the long drawn out and heartbreaking litigation is in sight."

Mrs. Thaw, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jeffrey Whitney, will return to New York for the hearing Monday.

After the referee had refused a decree in the Dibble suit, counsel for Mrs. Dibble obtained permission to amend the formation of a new suit to have the testimony of a negro porter who testified in the McKee trial about the relations of Dibble and Mrs. McKee.

MYERS, BAKRUPT BAKER, IS GONE HIS CASE HEARD

Where is Louis Myers, who conducted the Scientific Cookery at 966 Main street until that emporium went into bankruptcy? Officials of the bankruptcy court have failed to locate Myers, his creditors have no trace of him and he did not appear at the hearing before Referee John W. Banks this morning. Attorneys Shapiro & Shapiro who formerly represented Myers say they are no longer his counsel and know nothing of his whereabouts.

The hearing this morning was on Myers' motion for discharge from bankruptcy. Three creditors were on hand prepared to oppose the discharge and were disappointed when Myers did not appear. The bankruptcy court has been sending notifications to Myers at a New York address but no acknowledgment has been received. If he does not appear before the court he cannot get a discharge and the estate will remain in charge of Receiver Clark as at present.

There is no possibility of a dividend being declared as less than $2,000 has been realized on the assets and the expenses of the estate will equal that sum. In a few days creditors will probably be written specifically of objection to Myers' discharge. His liabilities were $9,376.10 and his assets $5,600.

"SLAVER" STILL AT LARGE; PAL IS SENTENCED

at the Files girl by DeBella, according to her statements today.

Last night DeBella and Damiano are alleged to have come to the Arch street house and to have suddenly burst into the presence of the girl. A gun was pointed to the head of Mrs. Damiano and she was told to bring the Files girl with the two men to New York. The Files girl put a skirt on over her house gown. She pleaded that she would have to go to her home on Main street. She told her troubles to a person in the house who turned down and finally came to the police headquarters. The complainant was accompanied by the Arch street residence by Captain Regan and Detective Fox. When they arrived the girls were at the Main street house prostrating and hoping the officers would follow them there. The police believed that a disgruntled author had made the complaint and went back to the station house.

On Main street the girls were locked in a room shivering with fear of their captors. Outside the two men paced up and down and finally came to the house and demanded the girls of Mrs. Strauss. She said: "They have left ten minutes ago." Not satisfied the men pushed past her and searched the house. They then returned to the Main and High streets to watch for the girls, who followed them down Main street and when they reached the army were in for protection and inquired of the police. They were told to wait for the police automobile and to jump into it immediately on its arrival. This was done but the girls had left the corner of Arch and Main streets. The police hurried to the railroad station but DeBella and Damiano were not there. Captain Regan ordered the girls to walk up Main street and watch for them. The detectives followed.

At Lumber and Main streets, DeBella and his companion were standing when the girls joined them and signaled the police. Fox crossed the street and came up behind Damiano. DeBella saw Fox as he grabbed Damiano and began to battle. DeBella turned on Regan and drove his hand into a side pocket, attempting to shoot through the coat at the officer who placed a revolver to DeBella's neck and with his free hand grasped the hidden revolver. DeBella struggled to get the gun on Regan's stomach. The plucky officer clung tightly to the muzzle. He did not dare to shoot DeBella owing to the little evidence then at hand. At the risk of his life Regan threw the prisoner violently against the wall of the building before which they were wrestling. The attempt was ill-timed, however, for neither combatant realized that they were on the edge of a curbing which was at least two feet above the pavement.

As Regan threw his strength against his opponent, both fell over the curb into the street. Both Regan and DeBella released their holds. Regan's back was sprained and he was temporarily stunned. Realizing his chance, DeBella ran down Main street. Regan quickly recovered and was going to shoot, when he found the fugitive was running back and forth ahead of two men who obstructed the officer's shot. Regan fired three times in the air in an effort to see DeBella who did not stop but turned the corner of Houseatone avenue and ran towards Congress street. An hour's search on the part of the police later failed to divulge his hiding place in the many vacant lots and places of refuge on the dark street.

Turning his attention to Damiano and Sergeant Fox, Regan found them still struggling for the possession of Damiano's gun. Fox had managed to draw his revolver while grasping the hand of Damiano which held a gun. As Regan drew near Damiano, he dropped his revolver in fear of being shot by the officer, but continued to fight. Captain Regan was compelled to use his "Billy" several times before Damiano gave up the fight. He was taken to headquarters, but refused to make any admissions which would implicate others in the case.

That but for the able resistance made by the officers both would have been killed is the opinion of witnesses to the fight last night, for it is said both men were attempting to shoot from the pocket, a trick known to gun-men.

In court this morning Prosecuting Attorney Gray unequivocally told the court that the prisoner should be held under the maximum penalty charges of a more serious character were yet to be brought.

When asked by the police to-day what she had said to accompany her captors the Damiano woman replied: "Because I know what they do to you—I have been slashed myself for disobedience" and she related an experience which she had had in the Bridgeport hospital with a deep knife wound of the thigh.

The Holland-America line steamer Maandstadter arrived at New York from Rotterdam, bringing $400,000 in gold, consigned to the Guaranty Trust Co.

The Weather:—Fair tonight and Sunday; northwest winds.

Furs safely kept at small cost.

Quicker one's furs go into safe quarters, when wearing-time has passed, the better.

A 'phone message or a post-card will bring our deliverymen to the door.

It's good to have them safely away from moth and dust. Their room is needed for other apparel.

All furs accepted here, are kept individually in dry cold vaults where Winter's temperature always prevails. Before they go into that delightful spot, each one is thoroughly cleaned so there is no chance for moth to stay in the cozy nest he has chosen.

When the hurrying months bring need of them again, they come forth lustrous and fresh and fine—actually improved by their stay.

Charge is small and is based on the amount at which you value the furs.

They may be made over to special advantage during this storage period; too. A new contrasting collar makes a coat practically new. New lining may be required to give proper finish. Foreclosure Granted on Calhoun Properties

Judge Williams of the superior court has allowed foreclosure proceedings against Charles M. Calhoun of 329 Washington avenue in two actions brought against him. Property fronting on Washington avenue and Calhoun place and a tract on Madison road will be foreclosed.

The Bridgeport Savings bank brought one action alleging loans amounting to $10,876 were unpaid by Calhoun. The Bridgeport Trust Co. brought another action saying $3,404.38 was due on unpaid notes. The court gave May 17, 1915, as the day to redeem on the Bridgeport Savings bank action and July 5, 1915, on the Bridgeport Trust Co. suit. Altogether there were 16 attachments on the property.

While attempting to separate two dogs that were fighting in the street with muzzles over their mouths, Charles Bodington, aged 73, a resident of East Main street, recently arrived from Fairfield, was severely bitten on the right hand as his finger became enmeshed in the wire guards. He was treated at the emergency hospital.
